UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, Thursday, June 29.—Teachers in front of you, teachers behind, teachers beside you and still they come. Another large audience of citizons and students filled the auditorium Wednesday evening to hear Dr. G. Stanley Hall, of Clarke University, Massachusetts, on "How to Educate Girls." Dr. Hall has some peculiar ideas along this line, and lecture was full of interest for teachers and parents.

Some few things he said: The question how to raise girls is delicate and complicated. Girls and boys differ in weight and measurement, physically, mentally, morally. The health of high school girls should be considered above all intellectual training. Girls should have the insisting that so much school-going ruins the girls' health; but statistics show that higher education makes for health. The greatest sins of girls are infanticide and story-telling. The effect of higher education on marriage is lamentable.

Of ten classes of Vassar in ten years after graduation only thirty per cent. married. Of ten classes of Smith College in ten years after graduation forty-two per cent. married. Of the graduates of Vassar since 1885 fifty-five per cent. are married or engaged. Of Cornell only 24 per cent are married or engaged. Of Cornell only 24 per cent are married or engaged. Of the graduates of Vassar since 1885 fifty-five per cent. are married or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. are married or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. are married or engaged. Of no.000 girls graduated in all the female colleges in ten years only twenty-three and and a one-third are married or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. married, or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. are married or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. are married or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. are married or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. are married or engaged. Of male graduates only fifty per cent. are married or engaged. Of and end.

Every girl should keep holy the monthly sabbath in her life and retire from the world, forget all intellectual training and rejoice that she is a woman and can become a mother.

Girls should be raised in the country, not in the crowded cities. They should have plenty of sleep. There should be schools for manners and correct deportment. They should be taught rhythm, regularity, reverence. Taught religion, not theology; poetry, nature study, botany, animal life, about the greatest leaders of the world, sentiment, pedagogy; some modern languages; domesticity should be taught them. should be taught them.

Leave out Latin, physics, chemistry and many other things, of which girls have no earthly need. Dr. Hall closed his great lecture with Dr. Hall closed his great lecture with a beautiful picture of the Madonna in her simple home in Nazareth, and of the worship accorded her in all ages.

One may study if he pleases or walk around and drink in inspiration from these beautiful buildings and the surrounding mountain scenery. Certainly this is the ideal place for a summer school, and the teachers are loud in their praises of the city, university, people and environments. In former years there has been much complaint about the fare at the boarding houses and the crowded condition of the rooms and the crowded condition of the rooms occupied by the teachers. This year there is a decided improvement along both lines and all seem perfectly satisand not the whole twelve menths. The cason for this lies in the fact that glass blowing is an industry of peculiar difficulty entailing much expenditure of force and energy among those who follow it.

Thursday evening the teachers are anticipating a treat in the form of a stereopticon lecture, "The Inferno," by Professor Currell, of Washington and Professor Currell, of Washington and Lee Univesity.

On Friday evening Mrs. William M. Strother will give "Enoch Arden" in the auditorium.

DRAWING AND ART.

One of the most attractive place is the excellent studio of F. Graham Cootes and Rea Sloan Bredin, in the draughting room of the mechanical library. More than one hundred teachers are registered already for this course. The work embraces drawing, painting, illustration, designing and composition. A model in costume poses every morning and the afternoons are devoted to landscape work.

The instructors are very pleasant, Mr. Bredin is a young illustrator and painter of ability, and has been particularly successful as a teacher.

Mr. Cootes is a Bachelor and Master of Arts of the University of Virginia, received his education under the best known teachers in New York. He has been engaged in practical illustrating and poster work. For the last two years he has conducted a private class in New poster work. For the last two years he has conducted a priyate class in New York.

Mr. Cootes is extremely popular with the "Methodites", and the studio is filled at all hours with pupils and visitors.

Mr. Utterback has not been able to come to Charlottesyille this week. In his absence Mrs. Moffett is teaching a large class, drawing according to the Augsbury system. In every class where it is announced that Mrs. Moffett will teach, there is not a vacant seat and usually many teachers are found standing, trying to catch her words or see what she is writing upon the board.

Mr. Southwick announced, to-day that his lectures would cover the works of Shakespeare, required by the various universelties for entrance.

The New York School of Art chases has offered a scholarship to the student doing the hest all round work, during the summer. The value of this scholarship is $75.

Washington Camp, No. 33, P. O. S. of A., held a well attended meeting in their hall, corner of Eighth and Hull Streets. Wednesday night. After the routine business, officers for the ensuing term were elected as follows: President, T. M. Carr; vice-president, R. F. Whitaker; master of forms, J. E. Gill; conductor, W. L. Greenwood; inspector, G. C. Andrews; guard, D. M. Hinnani; chaplain, C. M. Snith; assistant recording secretary, H. A. Stewart; trustee for eighteen months, J. D. Reams. The officers-elect will be installed at their next meeting.

This camp has been chartered only very recently, but it has already a good membership, which is increasing at each meeting.

Miss Elizabeth Smith Dies. MISS Elizabeth Smith Dies.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, wife of Mr. Albert Smith, living about three miles from the city, near Branch's Church, died Wednesday mirning in her home.

Mrs. Smith leaves her husband, two children, George W. Smith, of Chesterhold, and Eugene T. Smith, of Westehester, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. T. D. Chalkiey, of Drewry's Bluff.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. Joel T. Tucker, of Fairmount.

CHANGED POSITION FOR

JOHN F. WALLACE.

He was chief engineer of the Panama Canal until his resignation was demanded by the Secretary of War and accepted by the President. Mr. Tartecharges the chief engineer with changing his position overnight "for mere lucre," and with being influenced "solely by personal advantage."

Wallace met in New York by appointment, and according to the statement:

"Mr. Wallace said that a few days before he sent the cable to the seerstary he had received a cable from prominent business men in New York asking if he would consider an offer to accept an important position in New York, and that he had cabled in reply that it was "simply a question of terms and conditions," and that he had requested particulars; that the particulars came and it proved to be a definite offer of a position as president of a large holding company, controlling several other corporations, with certain stock benefits and other advantages to himself, which, with the salary, made it raquivalent to $50,000 a year; that he did not at once accept the offer, but delayed it for a few days, in order to cable the Secretary of War, during which the parties increased their proposal between ten and fifteen thousand dollars a year, making it equivalent to $50,000 or $55,000."

He stated that the position was an especially attractive one and such as he had hoped to obtain after the completion of the canal; that the duties of his new position were especially agreeable and afforded opportunities to make money through investments, etc.; further the proposition was such a good one that he did not consider that he could decline it; that life on the istmus was lonely and accompanied with risk to himself and wife and was another reason for accepting a better offer. He considered that the older of the office had a right to retire from it at his option at any time.

What Secretary Said.

What Secretary Said.

when he shished, Secretary Said.

When he shished, Secretary Taft thus addressed him:

"Mr. Wallace, I am inexpressibly disappointed not only because you have taken this step, but because you seem so utterly unsensible of the significance of your conduct. You come with the hald amouncement that you quit your task at a critical moment, on the eve of important work and in the midst of re-organization plans, under which you accepted your position."
"I must be allowed to remind you that when you were employed by the commission a little over a year ago, you were only receiving $15,000 per annum under your former position, and that your salary was fixed at the sum demanded by yourself, $25,000. If you had not desired the position, you need not have sought nor accepted it, but I understand that quite the contrary was the case. Now, within twelve days after your arrival upon the isthmus, you send me a cable which, read in the light of what you say to-day, signifies your practical acceptance of an offer of another position inconsistent with the performance of your duties on the isthmus. I am astonished that you should be so disregardful of the splendid opportunities of the position, which would have made you famous the world over by the honorable performance of your duties of chief engineer.

"For mere lucre you change your position overnight, without thought of the embarrassing position in which your department is not perfected in organization, when the engineering forces on the isthmus are left without a head, and your department is not perfected in organization, when the advisory board of engineers is to assemble under call of the President within two years and when I am departing for the Philippines on public duty. All this you know as well as I know it; it has not had the least influence upon your action. You have thought of yourself and yourself alone. I consider that by every principle of honor and duty you were bound to treat the subject differently.

"Mr. Wallace, I do not agree with your deas ever well as I do by every principle of honer and duty you were bound to treat the subject differently.

"Mr. Wallace, I do not agree with your idea of your rights, nor with your idea as to your duties. I do not agree that the President's order giving him the right to discharge an unfaithful commissioner gave you the right to abandon your duties at a critical moment. Your duty in the premises is not measured by your legal contractual rights. It should be measured by the light officer with a sacred alleglance to the sovernment it should be nis honor and his pleasure to serve.

"Under these circumstances, Mr. Wallace, and with great personal pain and disappointment, I am bound to say that I consider the public interest requires that you tender you rresignation at this moment and turn over records of your office to the chairman of the commission."

Resignation Tendered.

Resignation Tendered.

Resignation Tendered.

Mr. Wallace stated "that he deeply regretted that the Secretary's point of view was different from his own, and that he would send his resignation as soon as he got back to his hetel."

His resignation as commissioner, as chief engineer and as vice-president and general manager were then submitted.

It is expected that his successor as chief engineer may be announced in a few days. The commission is in communication with an engineer with distinguished ability; who has been asked whether he will accept the position, and an answer is expected from him probably to-morrow. Neither Mr. Taft nor Chuirman Shonts would to-night indicate the identity of the man to who the place has been offered.

The boats went over the line as follows:

Lila, yawl, 10:00:20

Mopsa, cutter, 10:00:50

Tamerlane, yawl, 10:00:40.
Gauntiet, sloop, 10:01:20.
Bonito, sloop, 10:01:20.
All of these boats' are under forty feet racing length, with the exception of the Bonita, which is just the limit of the class, "Larry" Huntington's boat is only 27.7 feet. D. Huntington's sloop Gauntlet, New

The preparatory signal was given at 10 o'clock from the schooner yacht Nokomis, which was used as the committee boat. Although the start was at an early hour, there was a crowd of yachtsmen and their women friends on the lawn at the clubhouse and on board the boats at anchor in the harhor. The yachts were dressed in the international signal code colors, the black-hulled Nokomis making a fine showing.
